Delois HarrisI remembered when I relocated from Rochester, NY to LaGrange GA and my daughter Tynisha use to play with fire. One weekend while living in LaGrange I went with Rachell Cobb-Valion to visit her mother (Nuchie) and we told Mrs. Nuchie about my daugther's fascination with fire. So Mrs. Nuchie went outside in the backyard with Tynisha and say they were going to build a fire, well this fire has trees, furniture, tires, you name it she put on the pile and started that fire. with gasoline. As me and Rachell was watching the fire from inside, we noticed that Tynisha was standing behind us and we asked her why wasn't she outside with her fire. Well Tynisha no longer played with fire and it was the way Mrs. Nuchie instilled the lesson about how dangerous a fire can be.To the family I'm so sorry for you loss and I know she will be missed.

So many memories, where do I start? Growing up in Alabama with my Grandma were some of the best years of my life. I remember fondly running through the fields, picking pecans up off the ground and just playing. She always kept a watchful eye but allowed us to be kids.She is well loved and will forever be missed!Love, Peace and BlessingsToni
